GOVERNMENT OPERATIONS: REGULATORY COMPLIANCE FOR NIH GRANTEES: HEHS-96-90R

BiblioGov. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 24 pages. Dimensions: 9.7in. x 7.4in. x 0.1in. Pursuant to a congressional request, GAO reviewed National Institutes of Health grantees compliance with applicable federal regulations. GAO noted that: (1) researchers and administrators are increasingly concerned about the increase in regulations with which they must comply, but they also acknowledge that the regulations serve important safety goals; (2) researchers believe that certain regulations are inordinately burdensome and costly; (3) regulations that are considered burdensome and costly include those governing environmental protection, protection for human subjects, animal care and use, and conflict-of-interest disclosure; (4) the greatest cost of these regulations is attributed to the staff time devoted to compliance; (5) researchers cannot provide direct compliance cost data or determine how much of their grants they spend on compliance because their information systems cannot differentiate compliance costs from other costs; (6) some costs cannot be avoided even if federal regulations did not exist because they are part of good management and scientific and safety procedures; and (7) eliminating federal regulations may not reduce the compliance burden or cost, since institutions would still need to comply with state and local regulations. This item ships from La Vergne, TN. Paperback.
