Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Pursuant to a congressional request, GAO provided Air Force pilot requirements and inventory data for use in evaluating future proposals to enhance pilot compensation. GAO found that: (1) the Air Force authorized 23,300 pilot positions and assigned 23,358 pilots, as of December 31, 1987; (2) updated estimates showed a shortage of about 2,000 pilots for fiscal year (FY) 1992; (3) the Air Force usually met wing-level requirements, but had difficulty meeting staff and military education requirements during shortages; (4) if the current retention rate continues, about half of all pilots entering their 6th year of service would complete their 11th year of service; (5) the Air Force projected that pilot experience levels would decline through FY 1993; (6) pilots comprised 24 percent of the Air Force's 107,338 officers in FY 1987 and accounted for a higher percentage of high-ranking officers than their percentage of total officers; (7) pilots with the rank of captain, major, and lieutenant colonel annually earn $43,749, $51,282, and $61,646, respectively; and (8) in 1981, the Air Force increased aviation career incentive pay rates...
