I generally take a hen carcass, smear it with the musk of a muskrat, and use it for a drag, as it will make a trail that a mink is pretty sure to follow to the trap which should be set in a hole near an old stump or log if such a hole can be found, and then covered with fine dry dirt, rotten wood or what is better than either, the feathers from the chicken carcass which has been used as a drag. I find it a better way to cut the bait into small pieces and use several pieces with each trap, but if only one piece is used it is best to stake it fast. If an animal only has to make one trip into the enclosure to get all the bait he will not be as apt to be taken as if he made several trips, which he is pretty sure to do if the bait is cut into small pieces and scattered around in the enclosure. There seems to be quite a difference of opinion among trappers as to the attractive value of Scents and Decoys. Some praise them, while others consider them of little value. In our years of experience as Editor of the H-T-T we have read thousands of trappers letters from all parts of America, which in addition to personal observation when on the trapping line, enables us to say that Scents and Decoys, if rightly made, prepared and used are of value. There is no...
