There are fifty-three applicants, and the salary offered is, 120. The City Librarian of Nottingham reports to us a change which marks progress at the close of the nineteenth century. Mr. Briscoe writes: -- When the Free Library in Thurland Street was opened in 1867, the committee fixed the age at when youths of both sexes could join the library at fourteen years. At a largely attended meeting of the Library Committee on October i6th, the age limit was considered, and, in view of the higher educational standard of to-day as compared with the standard of thirty-three years ago, and the love of reading created, stimulated, and fed by the operations of our Children s Lending Library in Shakespeare Street, it was...
