Excerpt: . she used to commend her mistress and blame her master) had not formerly been of another opinion. I don t know, replied she, what I might once think; but now I am confidous matters are as I tell you; the world will shortly see who hath been deceived; for my part, I say nothing, but that it is wondersome how some people can carry all things with a grave face. Thus Mr Adams and she discoursed, till they came opposite to a great house which stood at some distance from the road: a lady in the coach, spying it, cried, Yonder lives the unfortunate Leonora, if one can justly call a woman unfortunate whom we must own at the same time guilty and the author of her own calamity. This was abundantly sufficient to awaken the curiosity of Mr Adams, as indeed it did that of the whole company, who jointly solicited the lady to acquaint them with Leonora s history, since it seemed, by what she had said, to contain something remarkable. The lady, who was perfectly well-bred, did not require many entreaties, and having only wished their entertainment might make amends for the company s attention, she began in the following manner. ib. The history of Leonora, or the unfortunate jilt. CJONORA was the daughter of a gentleman of fortune; she was tall and well-shaped, with a sprightliness in her countenance which often attracts beyond more regular features joined with an...
